FORE! There is a lot to love about Steamboat's Golf Course

Its historical roots may be in Scotland, but the courses in the Yampa Valley would make even the founding members and players of St. Andrew's jealous. Yes, Steamboat's wide open valleys and never-ending green scenery is great for ranching, but are also ideal for putting, chipping, pitching and driving. Trust us.

Haymaker Golf Course

This 233 acre, city-owned public golf course was the first course in the state of Colorado to achieve certification through the Audubon International Signature Program. It has been described as a core golf course built for golfers and there is no residential development, no distractions except for the broad vistas of the Yampa Valley and Mount Werner. Catamount Ranch & Club Golf Course

Catamount Ranch & Club is the Yampa Valley's only private golf and lake community. It combines a world class 18-hole Tom Weiskopf championship course with a 532 acre private lake, pristine hay meadows and mountain wilderness. To preserve the character of the landscape for generations to come, they have placed 4,000 acres into the Yampa Valley Land Trust. Catamount has been designated one of Golf Digest's top10 "Best courses" in Colorado and was selected as LINKS magazine's "100 Premier Properties. Rollingstone Ranch Golf Club (formerly the Steamboat Sheraton Golf Course)

Rollingstone Ranch Golf Club is a Robert Trent Jones II designed golf course and opened for 18-hole play in the summer of 1974. Aged aspen and evergreen trees shape the majority of holes on this magnificent layout, enhancing this unique pristine setting. Built on a parcel in excess of one hundred fifty acres, this championship-caliber course provides the player with stunning panoramic views. In 2008 a 2.2 million dollar course renovation was completed. Renovations include installing an updated irrigation system, adding drainage, fairway leveling, the addition and grading of 14 tee boxes, constructing a new parking lot, and adding a complete new sign package to the course as a part of our name change.
